The United States and the world have made substantial progress toward ending hunger and poverty over the past several decades. Worldwide, extreme poverty – living on less than $1.90 a day – has been cut in half over the past 30 years. But more work needs to be done. Central Presbyterian Church has decided to join other faith leaders, nongovernmental agencies and business leaders through Bread for the World and end hunger and extreme poverty by 2030.

The goal of Bread for the World's Offering of Letters is to write policy makers and urge them to create pathways out of hunger and poverty. Join the World and Community Concerns Committee for educational opportunities to learn about the status and effects of hunger, then turn faith into action by writing letters to members of Congress. Christian Education Leader Training workshop is February 17

Central will host a training session for all those involved in our educational ministry with children on Saturday, February 17, from 1:00 to 4:15 p.m. Led by master teacher Suzanne Stout who has directed a LOGOS program at First Christian Church of Des Moines for 17 years, this 2-part workshop will help volunteers and professionals hone their skills in the classroom for a more productive educational experience for children. This 3-hour session will be divided in to two parts:

1. Discipline with Love: will address the challenging topic of discipline in the church. This workshop considers the basics for effective, loving discipline and provides recommendations for helpful classroom strategies. It is great for all adults who lead young people.
2. Teacher’s Toolbox: fabulous for equipping teachers and leaders for Sunday School, LOGOS, Vacation Bible School, and other opportunities for Bible study with young people. This interactive workshop examines the importance of Bible study, provides practical tools and techniques for teaching, and discusses the elements of teacher effectiveness.

Mark your calendars and contact Greg Halterman about making your reservation today! Childcare will be provided.
